WIFE OF STATE SENATOR ILL ONLY TWO DAYS BEFORE DEATH SEIZURE

ABOUT THIS

— AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

AFTER EFFECTS.—An earthquake in Peru, destructive high tides on our southeastern coast, remind us of the relation of things in the earth. Some, observing the high tides off the coast of the Carolinas, will see only a local disturbance, some property swept away, a number of persons rescued by the heroism of others. That will be all.

A DIFFERENT STORY.—But the seismograph tells a different story. It has no prejudices, no limitations set by nationalism or internationalism. It tells of the earthquake in Peru, as do news reports. An earthquake thousands of miles away, death here. There is a connection between all things and all places.

NATURAL.—It's natural, of course, to be impressed more by what happens close to us than what happens thousands of miles away. Persons marooned on the sandbar shoals off Buxton, N. C., and rescued, were impressed by their experience. Others, elsewhere, may not have been so fortunate. When the mighty ocean rolls too high, persons may be taken away and never be heard from again. Fortunate the person who can put together happenings far apart and thus pave the way to useful conclusions.

BRITON'S "NUTS."—We had our New Deal, with some good things being done, but more bad things than good. England followed and elected a so-called Labor government, which has secured less labor for its people than the British have ever known. But, just as the United States tired of big talk and bad performance, so England shows signs of seeking freedom from Anglo-Saxons, fair-haired, fanatic occasionally get a toe hold, but the good sense of the people have a way of cutting loose after the spree. With the Labor government out some of these days, private initiative again will lift up "Old Albion."

TIDES.—Just as in the surprise extra five feet of high tide that devastated part of the Carolina coast, so do tides in the experience of people devastate and change the course of ethnics. Like the 12-year-old Chicago boy who reportedly confessed to killing another youngster after giving him a cigarette and telling him that he would never smoke another. Two families devastated, one life gone, another ruined. And all because as a superficial people we do not get down to the serious task of studying to make ourselves capable mothers and fathers.

HISTORY.—History is interesting—the most fascinating study available to human beings. Some of it is old, of course, but it is ever new. World displacements of the present are not new, except to the younger generation—and a few others who find thinking boring. Take, as an example, "The Retreat of the Ten Thousand," following the death of Xerxes, when the Greeks were forced to return to Asiatic Greece from Babylon. In those days the "world" (as it was known then) was in turmoil, with allies changing sides, dynasties toppling, and uncertainty holding northwest Asia and North and West African peoples in constant terror, with the terror reaching equal heights on European's southeast.

THE SAME.—History remains the same, only the color changing. Fortunate are those who gauge their future by RESULTS of actions of the past.

Sales Dates

Nov. 8—John Wittern, Mokena

By MARGARET M. SEMMLER

Palos Heights and Palos Park Women's clubs won honors last Friday at the Third District meeting of the Illinois Federation of Women's club meeting, Hamilton Park field house, 72nd street and Normal boulevard, Chicago, in the garden displays.

Palos Heights won first place in class one, with its table center piece of lacy fern, centered by an orchid, in a plain flat glass container, with an orchid candle on either side.

Palos Park won second place in class one. They had a lovely centerpiece of yellow mums, with yellow candlesticks on either side.

More than 376 persons attended. An interesting report was given of the recent national convention in Washington, D.C.

Very much enjoyed was the A cappella mixed choir of the Chicago Christian high school comprising 100 members. Their director is James Barr.

The speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Charles Christian, pastor of the La Grange Baptist church, whose subject was "What Price America." He recalled the priceless gift of our independence and dwelt on the labor situation in our country with labor giving as little of themselves as possible. In contrast to the pioneers who gave, all they had, stress was made on immoral conduct and with these was a reminder to us of the need to strive, as a whole, for high ideals; that if the opposite continues, there will come from it some kind of government regimentation.

Mentioning that we may be tried by fire, in his question, "Can a man be a Christian and a business man at the same time?" suggested that we be not too critical now, that responsible criticism we can absorb, all except one thing now over little things and the irresponsibility. There is much bickering grows tense. Mr. Christian told of a book published in Russia, "I Want to Be Like Stalin," which explains and exalts Communism. In that book a dying woman is quoted as saying, "Fear not, Stalin is here." It was shown that Russia is building for an isolated world, and as long as we have a word war over the issues of the day, we will never have a military war. The way out, Mr. Christian said, was not Nazism or Communism, but our own way. We are paying the bills, but not the price, recalling the price the founders of our country have paid. He also said we are now at a low in morality and are not making democracy perform. We must return to the very basis upon which our nation was built, he said.

Beaver - Dralle

In a ceremony in McKinley Memorial Presbyterian church, Champaign, Saturday evening, November 1, Miss Phyllis Ann Beaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Beaver, Champaign, became the bride of Ralph D. Dralle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dralle of Green Garden. The double-ring ceremony was read by the pastor, the Rev. James R. Hine.

"O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Mrs. Al Hunter, accompanied by Lester Van Tress at the organ, with "The Bridal Chorus" announcing the entrance of the bride party, the bride accompanied by her father.

White gladioli tied with white ribbon bows adorned the pews, while at the altar were gladioli, palms, and tall tapers in candelabra.

Maid of honor was Miss Beverly Beaver, sister of the bride, while bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Pope and Miss Barbara Kelly. David Dralle of Green Garden was his brother's best man.

Groomsmen were William C. Bettenhausen of Green Garden and Ernest Stevenson of Chicago, while ushers were Robert Brandes of Streator, Kent Ryan of Tonica, and James Beaver of Centralia, cousin of the bride.

The bridal gown was white satin with tight-fitting bodice finished with a bertha trimmed with small satin roses, rounded neckline, long sleeves with points over hands, full-gathered skirt, with long train. A finger-tip veil fell from a crown of satin, adorned with large roses. She carried a bridal bouquet of white roses centered with an orchid from which fell streamers of stephanotis.

The bride's attendants wore identical gowns, like the bride's, but were sleeveless with low-cut necklines. The maid of honor wore a heavy satin of delicate pink, and the bridesmaids' were identical dress in soft blue, with long satin gloves matching their dresses, poke bonnets adorned on either side with hand-made satin roses. The maid of honor carried a bouquet of deep-red roses, while the bridesmaids' bouquets were of pale pink roses.

The bride's mother wore a dinner gown of gold and gloves to match, and a hat with gold and brown feathers. The groom's mother wore a dinner gown of gray with blue-feathered hat and gloves. Both mothers wore orchids.

A reception followed in the church lounge. A four-tiered wedding cake centered the bride's table and was served by her aunts. Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Dralle left on a wedding trip to New Orleans, La., and Miami, Fla. They will be at home in Chicago after November 4.

ORLAND FIREMEN TO GIVE DANCE SATURDAY NIGHT, NOVEMBER 15

Keeping up a volunteer fire department costs a bit of money now and then, of course, and when there is no set source for getting the money, after a while running expenses get the pocketbook a bit low. That is one reason why Orland Park Volunteer Fire department has set Saturday night, November 15, as the date for the annual fall dance.

The fire laddies, like the rest of us, it is said, get down to a point where they cannot afford to go deeper. But after all, if it were not for emergencies there might not be any dances—or, at least, as many.

Toe ticklers for the dance are to be Don Adams and his orchestra, the fire laddies' announcement states, and while the reporter knows nothing of the orchestra, one of the fire department officials insisted that the reporter was just "plumb ignorant," since Don and

Plan Mail Vote In AAA Election

Conrad Borms, acting chairman of the Will county AAA committee, has announced that farmers will vote by mail in this year's annual community committee elections. Ballots will be cast during the period of November 12 to November 22.

This new method of holding elections was tried out last year in a couple of counties with very excellent results. It was proven not only economical, but also a practical way of making it easy for every eligible voter to participate, according to Mr. Borms.

"All the voter has to do," the acting chairman said, "is mark the ballot which will be sent to him and return it to the county office on or before November 22. The name which appears on the ballot for each of the positions to be filled—three community committeemen, two alternates, and a delegate and alternate to the county convention—represents the selection of a specially constituted nominating committee from which all present office holders are excluded. If the voter isn't satisfied with any listed candidate he has the privilege of writing in a selection of his own. In addition to this, there is nothing whatsoever either on the ballot or return envelope that would in any way identify the voter."

Ticket to Be Given For Double Parking

Mokena village board of trustees Tuesday night issued instructions to Officer DePorto to issue summonses for all drivers found double-parking on village streets.

Also to be penalized, under orders of the board, is parking with wheels on the sidewalk, a condition which has caused numerous complaints to village officials.

Several persons charged with traffic infringement have been ordered to appear before Judge Guindon Friday night for trial.

Active in Many Social, Political Phases of State

Following an illness of only two days, Mrs. Mary Dougall Barr, wife of Will county's Senator Richard J. Barr, died at the family home on Dougall road Wednesday evening of last week. She was in her 70th year.

Mrs. Barr's death was a shock to friends throughout the county and state. She had been active in social and welfare organizations for many years, and was widely known.

There had been no visible indication that Mrs. Barr was ill until Tuesday, the day preceding her death. On that day she complained of not feeling well and was examined by Dr. Lewis W. Woodruff, heart specialist.

Mrs. Barr remained in bed through Wednesday and most of the day there were indications that she was improving. Then came a turn for the worse in the evening, followed shortly afterward by death. Heart ailment was attributed as the cause of death.

Married to Senator Barr following his election to the Illinois senate in 1902, Mrs. Barr was associated with the senator's climb to be known widely in the political life of the state.

Mrs. Barr was born in Joliet and lived there throughout her life. She graduated from Joliet township high school. She was a founder and a past president of the Joliet Woman's club and also was a past vice president of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs.

She was a lifelong member of the Holly club and had served for 30 years on the board of the public health council here. In addition, she was a member of the Joliet Artist league, the Business and Professional Women's club, the Chicago Women's club, and the Women's Athletic club of Chicago. She was on the board of the Will county chapter, American Red Cross.

Mrs. Barr also was active in Republican women's organizations throughout the state.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by two sons, Richard J. Barr, Jr., Joliet architect, and William G. Barr, of Chicago, who is associated with the Federal Rent Control office there; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Barr West, of Joliet; one brother, William H. Dougall, of Joliet, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Friday morning at Christ Episcopal church, where Mrs. Barr had been a member for many years. Burial was in Elmhurst cemetery.

CAMPAGNING FOR RESTORATION . . . The once-proud U. S. S. Constellation (foreground) which rode the high seas in defense of her country now lies a forgotten hulk at Charlestown, Mass. Almost forgotten, that is. A fight to restore the ship to its original condition has been begun by the Navy Club of the U. S. A., Rockford, Ill., the organization which made possible the refitting years ago of the U. S. S. Constitution (rear). The Constellation is the oldest navy ship afloat, and there is a chance now that she once again may raise her masts to the sky as she did long ago.

FLOOD EVACUATION IN MIAMI . . . Floods that came in the wake of the latest hurricane to scourge Florida forced the evacuation of these persons from their homes at Miami. A life raft, rowboat and a makeshift raft were used to get them to higher ground. This was part of the disastrous aftermath of the second vicious hurricane to grind across Florida within a month. Crop damage throughout the state was in the millions of dollars.

MY LOVE HAS A HEART OF STONE . . . Unrequited love shouldn't happen to a dog—but it does. "Bing," for instance, collie owned by Jerry Yorio of New York, makes daily visits to a three and one-half foot statue of a retriever which was placed at the entrance of a statutory studio in the neighborhood recently. "Bing" apparently carries a flaming torch for his stony light of love, but doesn't even get a tail wag in return.

WHITEMAN AND BLACK BULL . . . The king of jazz, Paul Whiteman, does other things these days besides shaking a stick at his orchestra. As owner of the Walking Horse farm in New Jersey, he is also a breeder of fine cattle. Whiteman is pictured here with his blue ribbon Aberdeen Angus winner, "Erica III of Walking Horse farm," at the recent New Jersey association's Aberdeen Angus show in Trenton where he showed the prize animal.

BOO . . . This is what happens to little girls with pigtails when they read ghost stories which were never meant for their tender years. Well, anyway, it happened to Margaret O'Brien when she became too daring in her choice of reading matter.

BOOM CONTINUES . . . Peggy Frebault, secretary of the national executive committee of the "Draft Eisenhower for President" league, points to new slogan, "I Like Ike," which will appear on 20,000 lapel buttons across the nation.

Pony Express Letter

The Pony Express, inaugurated in the spring of 1860, first charged $5 for each letter of one-half ounce or less. The charge later was reduced to $2.50 and finally, in consideration of a government subsidy, the price was reduced to $1 a half ounce. These prices were in addition to the regular United States postage.

Soybean Quarter Century

The past quarter century has seen great diversification in use of soybean derivatives. It was just 25 years ago that A. E. Staley started processing soybeans at Decatur, Ill. Soybean was almost unknown to farmers at that time. Now it is the fourth largest cash grain crop.

Red Sky in the Morning

The red sky in the morning may be attributed to the rising sun shining on vapors in the air which were there through the night, perhaps indicating that there will be rain during the day. However, like all weather predictions, this may be subject to change.

Cranberries as Medicine

Indians used cranberries for food and medicinal purposes. The Pilgrims stewed ripe cranberries to make sauce and from the Indians learned to use the green berries for poultices to relieve inflammations and to heal wounds.

The nap of hand-woven Oriental rugs tied with the Ghiordes knot usually runs towards one end, and for that reason a rug viewed from one direction may show more highlights than when seen from

Strength of Plywood

Douglas fir logs from which plywood is made are called "peelers," because thin sheets of wood are peeled from the log, then bonded together into the panels. Actually, tests undertaken at the Forest Products laboratory, Madison, Wis., have proved plywood has pound for pound strength even greater than that of steel.

Early Coal Mining

The ancients apparently did not know the value of coal. There is a record of the Britons having used coal as early as 852 as a household fuel. Mining was begun in America in 1750 in Virginia. Prior to that time, however, the Indians used polished coal for ornaments and powdered coal in paint.

Horse Made Consul

Gaius Caesar, nicknamed Calligula because he wore military shoes called caligae in his youth, while serving as Roman emperor from 37 to 41 A. D., made his horse a consul of the Roman empire. He later was murdered by members of the praetorian cohorts led by Chaerea.

Spoken like an American!

You bet you can say it... You're an American... and the American Bill of Rights guarantees Freedom of the Press. But... Freedom doesn't work unless you work at it... Vote, serve on juries, be active in community affairs, know what's going on and do something about it.

Freedom is everybody's job!

BY NOON forlorn hoppers in the employment manager's ante-room at Cromby & Co. boiled down to Jimmy Wheeler and the "Plucked Chicken." They had simmered since nine, waiting to be hired or to hear, "We'll file your application and let you know if anything turns up." Jimmy put the first of these chances at less than hundred-to-one shots. Odds had reversed on him since that independence day two weeks ago when his ex-boss had spoken overwarmly and Jimmy's free soul chased Jimmy off the payroll.

As for the Plucked Chicken, Jimmy considered the Old Run-around formula a sure thing. He hadn't given her a second look for fear he'd feel sorry for her. No name to put to a maid in distress, the formerly chivalrous Jimmy admitted guiltily. But he'd seen too many such lately. He'd soured on the sex anyhow since his boss's secretary lied herself out of a jam and him into one after he'd stood up for her. "That chivalry complex of yours is a nuisance!" the boss had roared. Old Fletcher needn't worry. Jimmy agreed with him now.

The assistant manager gave Jimmy a blank to fill and turned to the Plucked Chicken. Elizabeth Bond was her name actually. Someone's private secretary once, would grab a typist job now. "We have a long waiting list. I'm afraid it isn't worth while calling again" was all she drew. Not even the Old Run-around! Jimmy handed in his blank. "Thanks," said the assistant. "We'll file your application—"

"—And let me know if anything turns up," Jimmy finished. He wondered how many such days his hundred-buck reserve would stand, as he followed Miss Bond's wake.

The girl was waiting for the elevator, a fragile arm braced against the wall. The dim light here softened the cheek-bone, hid worry-lines and ash-grey bleakness. Why she was class, a beauty once, before she began starving to death! The elevator came and she swayed toward it, would have fallen if Jimmy hadn't caught her.

"Thank you, I'm clumsy!" Her face lit and Jimmy looked into deep violet eyes. Then face and eyes went dead again. She'd keel over on the street, he worried. No breakfast probably. He must do something quick. At the street door Jimmy clutched the germ of an idea.

"Pardon me. Aren't you Miss Bond—in Cromby's just now? They said you might do a letter or so for me. I'm James Wheeler. Publicity man. With the Fletcher bureau once. Cromby had another good typist on their list but couldn't reach her. Leaves me in a jam."

Her eyes widened warily then turned eager.

"Yes. I'm free this afternoon." "Got a date then," Jimmy improvised. "Have to dictate at lunch. Mind going to Mike's place around the corner?"

He hoped she wouldn't cave in and have to be carried. But she made it and dropped in a chair with a sigh that sounded contented. Jimmy mumbled something about phoning and hunted up Mike himself. Jimmy knew the answers for too much food and drink. But how did they treat a gal all out of practice? And not let her know it? He told Mike all.

"You start her easy, Mr. Wheeler. Leave it to me."

Jimmy returned to their table as Mike brought cups of golden bouillon.

"Won't you try our new special on the house?" Mike invited. "Shall I fix up a nice little lunch as usual, Mr. Wheeler?"

Jimmy deferred to Miss Bond. She was already sipping her bouillon blissfully.

"She swayed and would have fallen if Jimmy hadn't caught her."

"I've a feeling anything here'll be good," she agreed and set down her empty cup. "I'm a pig! Just couldn't help it," she added wistfully, with a blush.

Jimmy grinned. "Won't have stenographers who aren't good feeders."

She laughed. Jimmy heard silver bells. Her bouillon worked fast. Violet eyes stayed alive now. Jimmy would like to spend a week feeding this girl. He had learned she was called "Betty." Jimmy thought "Betty" was his favorite name. By the time Mike brought second aid, he had her talking. He liked it. No whining. She was alone and on her own like himself, flotsam and jetsam from small towns. Jimmy told job-hunting yarns, too; made them light, set them in a remotish past. She loved the one about the boss's secretary who balled up her letters which Jimmy corrected until a prize bull slipped by and the boss got wise. "And I was the one the boss bawled out," Jimmy added. "Called it my fault for coddling the girl and spoiling her."

That was while they sipped demitasses.

"Aren't bumps fun to look back on!" she laughed.

She could laugh at bumps only one meal and a couple of bucks away! She'd walk out of his life and begin starving again. Jimmy almost didn't want her to starve. Jimmy almost didn't want her to walk out of his life. How could he help it? The query fuddled his bogus letters to theoretical publicity prospects as Betty pot-hooked them like a streak on paper Mike furnished. She had to tinker his sentences.

Suddenly a thought popped up like an unexpected check. Why not really mail those letters? He might land free lance work and keep on using Betty!

"Look here," he said. "How about a regular job, if we're satisfied after swapping references? My office is under my hat yet, but I'll find a cubby-hole."

Betty's former employer told him over the phone she was as good as Jimmy thought, lost her job only because the company failed. Jimmy persuaded her to take expense money and a week's salary in advance, by pretending he'd be away on business most of the week. Betty had a feeling this was all the reference she needed from him. Jimmy didn't argue. Old Fletcher might say something sour if Jimmy referred her to his ex-boss.

But, at parting, qualms began to wriggle around in Jimmy.

"Look here," he said. "If you get a chance at a better job, take it!"

"I've a feeling you may back out if I don't run," said Betty.

AFTER Betty ran, everything went greasy. The impossible didn't seem as possible. It seemed plain impossible later, after long hours of hammering at his best prospects. The only spark he struck was "Come and see us after business picks up." By five Jimmy hit bottom. He started home deciding he'd just tear up those letters Betty had agreed to send over by messenger. But the letters weren't there, the hall man reported. Jimmy thought that over, feeling as if somebody had kicked him. Stung again! Neat little game! That reference he called up, a plant, of course. He ought to have seen she came out of her dumps a little too fast! He was a fine judge of women!

Jimmy's phone was ringing as he stumbled into his apartment. "Mr. Wheeler?" a remote voice said. "This is Mr. A. B. Fletcher's secretary. Could you see Mr. Fletcher here tomorrow morning? He didn't tell me to call you but he spoke about you today. Said he'd hoped you'd be over your grouch and back on your old job before this. I'm just tipping you off."

"Well!" Jimmy exploded. "Uh—say—you're not Miss Moseley?"

"Mr. Fletcher's old secretary? No. She's left him. I got a feeling from things I heard at luncheon today there might be a vacancy where you said you used to work. And I got a feeling you'd be relieved if I found another job. I bought bargain clothes and tried it."

The voice trailed off in silver bells that could not be disguised. Jimmy was beyond speech.

"Please don't be mad, Mr. Wheeler. You saved my life. I'll pay back your money."

"The devil with the money!" Jimmy suddenly felt all right. "I'll be around if you think Fletcher will have the fatted calf ready—and you'll have luncheon with me."

"Maybe we'll have Mike cook the fatted calf," said Betty.

Indicative of the versatility of nickel are the results of a recent survey showing that today over 3,000 alloys in current use contain from a fraction to something less than 100 per cent of nickel.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Septic-Tank Systems
Data for Homeowners
Provided by U. of Ill.

URBANA-CHAMPAIGN—For thousands of persons building or modernizing homes where sanitary sewers are not available, the small homes council at the University of Illinois has just provided practical information on waste disposal by publishing a free circular on "Septic-Tank Systems." This is the 18th of the council's nontechnical illustrated circulars for homeowners.

"Septic tanks are simple and effective means of sewage disposal and are low in cost. In building or modernizing farmhouses, lake cottages, and suburban homes, include the septic-tank system in the plans as well as water, drain pipes, and plumbing fixtures," the circular advises.

It explains that household wastes are led into the tank through a tight sewer. In the tank the sewage is disintegrated by bacterial action. Liquid wastes pass from the tank into a disposal line of drain tiles which allow the liquid to seep into the soil.

Septic tanks may be either purchased ready-built or built by pouring concrete into forms in the ground. Materials, mechanics of installation, plans, and details are explained in the six-page circular.

A minimum size tank for a family of seven or less has approximately 500 gallons capacity and is three feet wide, four feet deep, and six feet long. It is buried in the ground sufficiently to provide for proper slope of pipes leading in and out of it, which usually is deep enough to cover the tank with earth.

"A two-chamber tank should not need cleaning more frequently than once in 10 or 12 years. A one-chamber tank requires more frequent cleaning," the circular says, and points out "It is an erroneous idea that a tank needs to be pumped out when it is filled—the tank is always full."

The circular also explains that differing from a septic tank is a cesspool, which is simply a covered, porous pit, whose use "is not recommended, because it contaminates the soil and may endanger the water supply."

Copies of the circular, on "Septic-Tank Systems" may be obtained from the Small Homes Council, University of Illinois, Urbana; from the Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Illinois; and from county farm and home advisors throughout Illinois.

Suppression of head-hunting leads to a "decline in enterprise and zest for life and hastens a deterioration of the population" in the more primitive Melanesian tribes, according to some evidence found by anthropologists. It is stated in the Encyclopedia Britannica. Melanesians believe that the power of the slain enemy resides in his skull, which will therefore confer more strength on the victor who possesses it.

A Halloween party was given in the Joe Doyle home last Friday evening with Martha Doyle, Barbara Martie and Patricia Ann Reid as hostesses. The home was decorated according to the season. Guests who were the fifth and sixth grade students and their teacher, Mrs. Sehman and her husband from Joliet, were masked and in costume. Dickie Dunham receiving a prize for keeping his identity concealed the longest. Much fun was derived by visiting the tree house and seeing the spook, who gave each a bubble gum. The 25 present enjoyed a scavenger hunt and the winning side then had the opportunity to hunt for the hidden treasure chest, upon finding it, the key was obtained from the Boleman drug store, found therein. The evening was ended with the serving of refreshments.

A daughter was born in Silver Cross hospital in Joliet, Saturday, October 29, to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sipple. She weighed 6 pounds and nine ounces and has been named Sarah Amelia.

Mrs. William Semmler received an interesting letter from Lester Stermer who is stationed in Wakayama, Japan where he has accepted a civil service position in a Military Government team when he received his discharge from the army in September 1946. That was the same work he did while in the army and because he liked it very much, he remained in the same work. He writes in part: "My work consists of many phases of life. Principally, we are concerned with the education system over here. Previously, education was for the elite—now, under the new education system, it has been opened to women as well as men and also the general educational level of the Japanese is rising."

"In our talks with students and teachers, we have been constantly asked about P. T. A. activities, Women's Organization activities and youth organization activities. Since my source of information is limited, I have taken this opportunity to ask if the local P. T. A., Women's Aid societies and any other social organization would be so kind as to furnish us with a list of past, present and future activities.—The smallest part or plan of activities is desired."

"If I knew the names of the officials of these varied organizations, I would write to them personally, but due to my two years absence, I am unable to remember or have any knowledge of their names."

C. L. Stermer, D. A. C., Wakayama Military Government Team APO 25, % Postmaster San Francisco, Calif."

I hope Mokena friends of this former resident, will comply with Lester's request and send him much valuable information. We all know he will appreciate it.

Square Biscuits,
Yet!

I see by a neighboring paper, that the round biscuit is on the way out. Yes, sir, home-management specialists have found that the square biscuit lends itself to assembly-line production and easy storage better than those customary ovals.

Well, we're all for progress, but that's one new idea we just don't cotton to. A round biscuit, spread nicely amidst with snappy country cheese, looks like a biscuit! And accompanied by a mellow glass of beer, it's a combination that you can't improve on!

So at the risk of being called old-fashioned, I'm voting for round biscuits, that fit a hungry man's mouth like no square imitation ever will... and for American beer served in the good old-fashioned way, in tall, cool mugs or ordinary glasses, with frosty sides and bubbles winking at the brim!

Think I'll step out to the kitchen for a snack right now!

"So I simply made a telephone call..."

Few things are more simple than making a telephone call. Few are more complex than making that call possible.

There are 316 separate parts in the manual type telephone alone; 433 parts in the dial type. But the telephone itself is only 1/17th of all the equipment Illinois Bell needs to put your calls through — wires, cables, batteries, switchboards with millions of connections. All kinds of apparatus and buildings to house it.

As more telephones are added, the equipment needed per telephone multiplies. Today, every time you make a telephone call, you set in motion a system which grows more and more complex for us to operate as it becomes easier and faster for you to use.

A $250,000,000 improvement program is bringing better telephone service your way.

A Little Scratch, A Little Cut, Unattended, May Result Seriously

Do you treat yourself when you are hurt?

If you do, it might be well to remember that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing," particularly in the matter of caring for what you might think is a simple wound, cut, or scrap of the skin, according to a "health talk" issued by the educational committee of the Illinois State Medical society.

A fall on the sidewalk, for example can result in cuts and abrasions of the skin. Such injuries are usually badly contaminated with dirt particles. Immediate home care should be given to ward off the danger of infection. A thorough cleansing with soap and water should be done at once. The washing of the cuts should be so thorough that all foreign matter, such as dirt or gravel, is removed. A sterile bandage should be applied. Some antiseptics are helpful, such as tincture of iodine, but frequently this application does not penetrate a deep wound and, if overdone, it may cause tissue irritation and delay healing. If the wound is deep or you can't get it clean, seek medical aid.

If the wound does not respond to this treatment, and becomes swollen, hot, and tender instead of healing, then call your doctor. Let him decide whether you need further attention. Bacteria or germs are present in every human body. No matter how "clean we keep ourselves, millions of bacteria, such as disease-producing streptococci and staphylococci, are always present on the skin, as many as millions to the square inch. There are millions more of all types on everything that make cause injury, especially in the soil. I they remain on the surface of the skin they are harmless, but once the skin is broken, the bacteria can enter the body, incubate, multiply, and destroy. About six hours are needed by the bacteria to establish themselves in the body. It is during this period that, frequently, infection can be avoided by thorough washing with soap and water.

The susceptibility of the individual person to the various types of germs, however, depends on many factors, such as the amount of bacteria entering the wound.

Inadequate cleansing or sterilization of the wound can cause serious complications, especially tetanus (lockjaw). The germ causing this condition produces one of the most powerful nerve poisons known. Even with the best treatment victims of lockjaw may die, usually because treatment is begun too late.

Statistics show that nine out of every 10 cases of serious infections stem from injuries so small that they seem too unimportant to warrant medical attention. Pain, nausea, convulsions, chills and fever following injury suggest dangerous possibilities that demand immediate medical attention.

Budget Balance Seen As Key To Stability

For the fiscal year ending next June, the Federal government expects to spend $41,500,000,000—more than four times total expenditures in the pre-war year 1938-39.

Treasury receipts for the current fiscal year are estimated at nearly $2,000,000,000 less than expenditures.

Thus in the first full peace-time fiscal year, with national income holding close to the war-time peaks, the government is still operating in the red.

As a result, business men and economists are urging more strongly than ever the achievement of a balanced budget to aid the return of the nation to economic stability.

The unbalanced budget is regarded by economists as one of the main sources of the inflationary rise in prices.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States, representing business views in the nation's capital, calls the 1946-47 budget "disappointingly high" and urges cuts in Federal spending as the key to financial stability.

NEW PALEFACE HUNTING GROUNDS . . . In the exotic tropical setting of Key Biscayne, once an Indian hunting and fishing ground, pleasure-bent palefaces now find easy hunting in their quest for rest, relaxation and recreation.

STEEPED IN HISTORY

Old Indian Stomping Ground Becomes New Vacation Gem

WNU Features.

MIAMI, FLA.—Where centuries ago Tequesta Indians fished and hunted, palefaces today seek sun tans 'midst the luxury of loafing under coconut palm trees on a tropic isle of idyllic contentment. This newest Gulf Streamland vacation gem is provided in Dade county's new 11 million dollar Crandon park, on Key Biscayne, a scant 10-minute drive from downtown Miami via the equally new six million dollar Rickenbacker causeway.

Both park and four-mile span from the Miami mainland to the ocean, via Virginia Key and Key Biscayne, will be formally opened November 9, 10 and 11 with the Tequesta festival. The celebration is named for the Tequesta Indians, who were the first known residents of the area now called Miami.

The out-of-this-world setting of this naturally exotic public playground, studded with more than 10,000 coconut palm trees, part of a once extensive copra plantation, stretches volumes into the past. Its two-mile expanse of reef-protected ocean bathing beach for centuries heard only the lush swish of palm fronds and surf, or the scream of sea birds.

Ponce de Leon, first tourist to discover the extra something south Florida offers in climate and sunshine, is believed to have stopped off at Key Biscayne in 1513, after a brief halt at the mouth of St. John's river at present Jacksonville. History shows that after exploring that area, he sailed southward along the Florida east coast, tarrying at St. Augustine, then continuing to an island he named Santa Marta.

South Florida authorities, after an extensive study of coast surveys along the Dade county coast are inclined to believe the Santa Marta discovered by Ponce de Leon was named Cayo Biscaino, or Key Biscayne, now site of the new park.

Just 400 years ago, Key Biscayne figured prominently when the Spanish explorer, Escalante de Fontenada, recorded the presence there of the Tequesta Indian tribe.

Fontenada was the lone surviving crew member of a galleon wrecked off Key Biscayne. Captured by the Tequestas, part of the Colusa federation, he was held in slavery for many years, but was allowed to roam, at will, within the territory ruled over by the Tequestas. Long a disciple of Ponce de Leon, he traversed the length and width of Key Biscayne, time and again, in an attempt to emulate his predecessor's quest for health and everlasting youth.

There's no known record, complete with skull and cross bones, of buried treasure on romantic Key Biscayne, although pieces of eight or pirate doubloons may be hidden beneath the golden sands where cover girls and their bronzed escorts today absorb their vitamins from the sky. Regardless of the mystery (or lack) of buried treasure, there's pleasure trove for all lucky lollers on the two million square feet of super bathing beach at Crandon park.

Black Caesar, notorious marauder of the Florida Keys, operated in this vicinity. This doughty highwayman of the waves frequently hid his plunder ship behind wooded isles such as Key Biscayne to stalk unwary merchantmen en route to Havana, Spain's Queen City of the Antilles. Perhaps some of Black Caesar's ill-gained loot now moulders near the southern end of the island!

Another linking of Key Biscayne to the "Florida that was" is the old

Cape Florida lighthouse. A landmark in the keys, this lofty hurricane defier was built in 1826. Unfriendly, marauding Indians set fire to the structure in the same century, killed one Negro slave, wounded the white lighthouse keeper. The tower, for many years erroneously known as "Old Spanish Light," was abandoned in 1876, but it still stands, a monument to the past — a 20th century beacon to modern counterparts of Ponce de Leon.

Yes, Key Biscayne, site of Crandon park, is truly an island packed with pleasure trove — a recreational treasure chest, laden with rich prizes of nature for Dade county residents and their visitors.

Nation in Bloom As Flower Week Observance Set

The entire nation is "in bloom" this week for the third annual observance of National Flower Week. Sponsored by the Society of American Florists, National Flower Week is planned as a tribute to the beauty and happiness brought into everyday lives by flowers. Throughout the week unusual facts and information on flowers will be disseminated to the public.

Because of the abundance of flowers during the early part of November, the entire nation will be converted into a fall flower festival. Florist shops and greenhouses will hold open houses, featuring special display of flowers and plants.

Typical of the marked strides made in floriculture are development of double varieties of many flowers and cross-pollination. Continuous research is being accomplished in all phases of floriculture. In the scientific field, hydroponics, a system whereby flowers are grown in chemical solutions without soil, required 75 years of study and experimentation.

Keeping the industry attuned with the times, shipments by air, telegraph deliveries and new methods of packaging and preserving flowers have been developed as means of prolonging the public's pleasure from flowers.

Woman of 101 Likes Long, Fast Car Ride

HUTCHINSON, KANS.—Mrs. Jennie Gilmore, who celebrated her 101st birthday anniversary this fall, likes nothing better than a "long, fast car ride."

Returning from a 3,400-mile auto jaunt to California, Mrs. Gilmore said: "I had a delightful time. In fact, I enjoyed every minute of it except when we had to slow down at times."

Chester Hedges, 54, her grandson, who drove, said Mrs. Gilmore complained only when he dropped the speed down to 40 or 50 miles an hour on long stretches of desert road. She prefers to travel around 70, he added.

Miniature Fleet Contains Famous Ships

NEW YORK. — A boyhood hobby has enabled August Crabtree to accumulate an entire fleet of ships, all miniatures carved to scale and equipped to the most minute detail.

Built by Crabtree over the last 20 years, the collection of 14 ships includes an Egyptian galley of 1500 B. C., a Roman ship that once plied the Mediterranean, a sailing ship of William the Conqueror's time, Columbus' flagship, the Santa Maria, and the British Britannica of 1840. Crabtree started as a boy in Portland, Ore., making models of ships that sailed the Columbia river. Living on a small private income, he continued to carve on his collection although friends "thought it was a crazy idea."

During the war Crabtree put aside his hobby to lay the body plan for the first Liberty ship and a landing craft at a Vancouver shipyard.

SCRIPTURE: II Peter; Jude; Luke 2:40-52.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Matthew 5:3-16.

Building Character

Lesson for November 16, 1947

WE SHALL need to read carefully Second Peter if we are to profit most in the study of Sunday's lesson. Peter tells us:

Dr. Newton

"According as his divine power hath given us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us to glory and virtue."

We may partake of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

That, I realize, is very difficult for us to understand, and yet it is within the grasp of every boy and girl, every man and woman, in all the world.

In addition to Second Peter, we are asked to read Jude and Luke 2:40-52. The passage in Luke tells how Jesus grew and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him.

As Jesus Grew

WE HEAR a great deal today about juvenile delinquency. The question everywhere arises, What can we do to prevent juvenile delinquency?

We have the answer in Sunday's lesson. As Jesus grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man, so can every youth in America grow into strong and beautiful manhood and womanhood.

The parents of Jesus, we are told, obeyed God in doing for the Child all that they were commanded to do.

The Love of God

"KEEP yourselves in the love of God," Jude 21. There is the formula for building Christian character.

This business of building Christian character is based on a formula—keeping within the circle of God's love.

It is just as essential to have the proper nourishment in building Christian character as in growing a fine ear of corn. Progress is not accidental. It is the result of right thinking, right behavior, right purpose. Only in the love of God can the young life find the nurture for Christian character.

Christian Mathematics

TURN again, if you will, to Second Peter, and read his mathematical formula by which Christian character is realized:

"Add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge, and to knowledge temperance, and to temperance patience, and to patience godliness, and to godliness brotherly kindness, and to brotherly kindness charity. For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Old-fashioned stuff, someone will cynically observe. Aye, old-fashioned it may seem, but only from this old-fashioned formula can character be built—Christian character.

And what is it that our needy, frightened world is asking for above everything else today? For the certitude of hope that is found only in hearts that are staid upon God.

We may smile at Peter's mathematics, but his formula is the only hope for United Nations, the only hope for world peace, the only hope for civilization.

Jude's Benediction

YOU have read, I hope, the brief Book of Jude, only 25 verses. You have followed his pungent, cogent argument. You have followed his exhortation. And now you come to his benediction—a very fitting climax for Sunday's lesson:

"Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy, to the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and evermore. Amen."

As you sit in your living room, or on the train, or in the plane, or in the hotel, or at the hospital, or wherever you may be, reading these lines, remember this—the need of America today is more Christian character in the home, factory, store, bank, mill, field, school room, in the meeting house.

God grant that we may heed the admonition of the Scripture passages above cited, and think on our ways while it is yet day. The night cometh apace.

Each of the 4-H clubbers making the tour of inspection qualified for the all-expense trip by completing a special farm or home betterment project in the "better methods" activity sponsored by the utility during the summer.

The 4-H farmers and farmerettes will be brought from their home communities in chartered buses and will be accompanied by their respective county farm and home advisors and club leaders.

They will be taken through the plant in groups of a dozen by company engineers who will explain the operations of the four big turbo-generators which turn out 75,000 kilowatts of electricity—enough to light a city of nearly 200,000 people.

A picnic lunch will be served to the visitors and an open discussion will be held with company agriculture and engineering experts on the production, transmission, and distribution of electricity in northern Illinois, with special emphasis on farm power uses.

The 4-H club group will include 14 from Grundy county, 74 from Kankakee, 18 from Kendall, 69 from LaSalle, 18 from Livingston, 6 from Marshall-Putnam, and 17 each from Stark and Will.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kremp, formerly of Oak Forest, stopped to visit friends in Oak Forest on their return from California, en route to Minocqua, Wis. They had dinner with the Leon Smalley's Monday night, November 3. Mr. and Mrs. Smalley recently purchased a summer resort at Little Bear lake, near Grand Junction, Mich.

The Forest Ridge Junior Women's club held its Halloween party Wednesday, October 29 at the VFW hall in Oak Forest. The party drew quite a large and enthusiastic crowd. The evening was topped off by the arrival of a guest dressed in a Japanese kimono and a white to hat. His face and head were completely covered with black silk cloth except for his eyes. He was at the party about two hours before anyone knew just who he was.

Birthdays for this month are Georgetown Vodnik, Connie Vicker, and Ronnie and Jerry Vicker, brothers who have birthdays on the same day, three years apart.

Mr. and Mrs. Dee Baity are moving from their home on 162nd and Oak avenue to Waverly avenue.

The dance at the VFW hall November 1 lasted far into the morning. There were many beautiful and elaborate costumes. Prizes for the best costumes were given to Betty Kelly, who was dressed as a witch; Rose Pilch, a Spanish senorita; Ruth Oestereich, of Chicago, a harem wife; Mary Sima, as Martha Washington; Helen Stavron, as the devil; Ben Krause as Aunt Jemima; William Sheehan, a friendly undertaker; Wendie Berg was an Arab; Ed Herman, with a silver-gray wig, as an elderly lady; Helen Kent wore long underwear, a fireman's cap and coat; Laura Short was a hula-girl. The orchestra was the Music Makers. Prizes were donated by the auxiliary of the VFW, who were sponsors of the party. The chairman was Marge Ryan and the cochairman, Helen Kent.

Marge's Beauty Shop has been moved from the first floor of 4807 W. 159th street to the second floor above the post office. She will have a much larger shop.

One or more farm ponds or lakes on every farm would enhance the value of the farm and help control disastrous floods.
